

DENTS' ANNUAL THRIFT DANCE HUGE SUCCESS

Silhouette Effect Of Decorations
Present Striking Appearance
SIT DOWN SUPPER

M.A.A.A. Minstrels Delight
Those Present With Songs and Impersonations

Last night's Dental Thrift Dance maintained the standard set by its predecessors of former years, the decorations being particularly attractive. Entering the hall, the guests were struck by the novel arrangements and decorations. All along the four walls were the silhouetted figures of devils, ladies, Dent students, Spanish heads, and Dean Thornton. Strewed about, here and there, were the outlines of skeletons and skulls of the dead and gone — victims of the caprices of the medicines and tooth-pullers. The pictures of deans and professors, past and present, were draped in red and white streamers. The committee in charge of the decorations are to be praised for their excellent and original work.

The floor was in a very good condition, the waxed surface reflecting the lights and the multi-colored dresses of the women.

It was a colorful spectacle indeed, to see the swaying figures of the gaily-gowned girls and their partners swaying in the somber shade of the canary-tinted glow-lights.

The M.A.A.A. Minstrels were present and delighted the audience with songs and impersonations. Jim Mooney and Mary Ethel Goodman entertained the audience with a pretty ballroom novelty dance.

What with the wonderful music given by Geoff Simpson's Orchestra, and the sit-down supper, the third Annual Dental Thrift Dance proved a great success, and a good time was had by all.

Among the ladies present were:

STUDENT COUPONS GOOD FOR HOCKEY GAME ON MONDAY

Students will gain admission to both Q.A.H.A. and Intercollegiate home games this year by their athletic coupons according to an announcement made yesterday by the authorities.

The first game at which coupons will be accepted is scheduled for Monday night at the Forum, when McGill meets St. Francois-National in a Q.A.H.A. game. Coupon no. 12 will be used on that date, and is accepted at the south entrance only.

Students are asked to be extremely careful in tearing off their tickets at the Forum, and not to put two in the box, as every paste board that gets in the hands of the Forum means a disbursement of money on the part of the McGill athletic board.

SIGMA XI LECTURE IS WELL ATTENDED

Professor Harrison of Yale University Spoke

NOTED EMBRYOLOGIST

Modern Trends in the Study of Animal Department Discussed

"It is surprising that development of race takes up more interest than the development of the individual."

Declaring this tendency, Professor Harrison who was described by Dr. Tate as one of the greatest American experimental embryologists, went on to tell what was being done by modern zoologists in the opposite direction.

After being introduced by Dr. A. S. Eve, the president of the McGill Chapter of the Sigma Xi, Dr. Harrison of Yale University began his illustrated lectures on "Modern Trends in the Study of Animal Development" last night in the Moyse Theatre.

By means of slides Professor Harrison demonstrated how organisms are continually adjusting themselves to conditions around them. By microsurgery, it was possible to divide cells during development. The first experiments were done by pricking an egg with a needle and killing it to see what would happen to the others. The dead egg was left with the rest. It is now possible to fuse two eggs to form a single embryo. The product, however, will be much larger than the original embryo would have been. Similarly one cell can be divided into two and it will reproduce two embryos. If two halves of embryo are put together in different ways with axes diverging, double-headed embryo will result.

Slides were then shown to illustrate the formation of individuals from two different species. Interesting photographic slides of chemias obtained by grafting sections of the tiger salamander on to the spotted salamander and vice versa concluded the lecture.

A vote of thanks was given to the speaker by Dr. Tate and the meeting was adjourned at about 9.30.

MOUNT EVEREST EXPEDITION

Will be Subject at People's Forum
Sunday

Mr. Noel Ewart Odell, A.R.S.M., F.G.S. is to deliver the address at the People's Forum, Sunday evening, December 5. The subject on which he will speak is entitled "The Mount Everest Expedition."

As Oxygen Officer and Geologist of the Mount Everest Expedition, Mr. Odell brings to the platform his own personal story of the tragic attempt to scale Mount Everest in 1924, a story full of dramatic incident, culminating in the disappearance of the ill-fated Mallory and Irvine at a point only a few hundred feet from the very top of the world. Mr. Odell was the last to see these heroic figures before giving their lives in attempting to conquer the world's greatest mountain in the interests of science and exploration.

This lecture will be profusely illustrated with lantern slides which takes the audience through the mysterious and curious Tibet, up with the climbing party, and within an ace of the summit of Mount Everest. A half-hour organ recital from 7 to 7.30 p.m. will be given by Mr. George M. Brewer, F.A.G.O. Organist assisted by Mr. Stanley H. Maxted, tenor.

MENTAL HYGIENE TOPIC OF SPEECH AT LOCAL HOTEL

President Of Rockefeller Institute
Addresses Canadian National Committee

WIT AND HUMOR

Noted Psychiatrist and Eminent Lecturer Heard at Ritz Carleton Hotel

(By J. S. A. Miller)

In a charming and most entertaining speech, marked by many and periodic flashes of wit and humor, Doctor George E. Vincent, president of the Rockefeller Institute, gave a truly brilliant review of "Public Health and Mental Hygiene" before the Canadian National Committee of Mental Hygiene at the Ritz Carleton Hotel yesterday afternoon at four-thirty.

As Sir Arthur Currie so aptly expressed it, the address was delivered in the "inimitable Vincent way". If the reader can imagine a commodious hotel ball-room fitted with people all of whom are happy in the possession of good ears and beaming faces, he will only begin to appreciate the charm and personality of this marvellous speaker. Many in the audience were still unprepared for the treat in store, when Dean Martin briefly outlined the history and achievements of the Canadian committee; and then introduced the famous visitor.

Doctor Vincent introduced the subject of public and individual health and led up to a general discussion of all the hygienes, especially the mental. Mental hygiene is the most recent to come before the public notice, and is intricately bound up with all the others with the hygiene of the home, of the school, of industry and of society. He spoke of the campaigns and duties of mental hygiene committees in Canada and United States.

"Public health is a tiresome subject, it is an important one but that doesn't make it more interesting; and people can't listen to it. In the same way, the subject of health is to the young individual, tiresome. Young people prefer to take chances, here, and only later do they begin to take notice of their health. Senility is the clearance-house for disease symptoms."

"So in the matter of public health, the average citizen is willing to take it for granted, and only wishes to be left alone. The fact that new and ideal communities have arisen on the work and researches of such men as Pasteur and Koch, does not interest him. Good water, sanitation and the proper disposal of waste, no not concern him as an individual. Thus it comes about that public health is imposed upon an unwilling, indifferent and ignorant public. In war no one wants military hygiene; but it is done; none of the troops are asked about it."

Why the public accepts unconsciously, even if indifferently, the present Quebec Labor Party was formed in 1915.

HOSTILITIES WASHED AWAY WITH HOT TEA

Freshettes Guests of Sophomores in R.V.C.

The Common Room of the Royal Victoria College, was the scene of a delightful tea yesterday afternoon, when the R.V.C. Sophomores entertained the Freshettes.

Many-colored streamers draped across the room produced a very artistic effect, and the shaded blue lights created a dim atmosphere. The decorating was very kindly done by Miss Sally Cox, assisted by Miss Madeleine Girvan.

The guests were received at the door by the president of '26, Miss Gwen Roberts. Among those invited were the presidents of the various women's societies. Dancing was enjoyed both before and after tea, the music being rendered by Miss M. Power and Miss K. Hole.

This convivial atmosphere tended to encourage friendliness between noble soph and youthful freshie. "This idea of producing good spirit between the two, instead of the bitterness of former years, is, to be highly recommended."

OREGON ON SKATES

Oregon Agricultural College students are skating to classes, to town, and even to dances. Approximately 700 pairs of roller skates were sold to them during one week.

Hellenism And Hebraism Will Be Discussed

B. M. Alexander Arts 28 and A. Edel will speak at the next meeting of the Maccabaean Circle to-morrow at 2.30 p.m. The subject of their talk will be "The relation between Hellenism and Hebraism."

Alexander will be the first speaker. He will sketch historically the relations and the contacts between the Greeks and the Hebrews. Edel will then deal with the subject in a critical manner and from an essentially philosophical point of view.

At this meeting a young lady member to the Executive of the Maccabaean Circle is to be elected. This election is occasioned by the departure of Miss Dorothy Friedman for Europe.

All students are cordially invited and a large attendance is anticipated.

HISTORY OF LABOR PARTY OUTLINED

Mr. Carrigan Spoke Before
Newly-formed McGill Club

SOCIALISM DISCUSSED

Discontent and Unrest Caused
Formation of Quebec
Branch in 1915

Last night the McGill Labor Club met at 8.15 in the Strathcona Hall. Mr. Carrigan, president of the Mechanists Union, was the speaker of the evening. The topic of his lecture was "The Aims of the Canadian Labor Party."

Mr. Carrigan gave a short outline of the labor movements in Canada. "To go over the trials and hardships of the working people of Canada would be to go over the whole of the history of the country. However, the actual history of the labor party does not start before 1886. In that year the parliamentary representation from the City of Montreal was limited to three members, and all three candidates ran on the Labor ticket. In 1882, the year of the founding of the Knights of Labor and similar societies, first indications of an organized labor movement became apparent."

In 1872 the socialist labor club was formed. In those days socialism was regarded with greater suspicion than it is today. Mr. Carrigan remembers an incident, where a lady actually fainted upon learning that she had shaken hands with a socialist to whom she had been introduced. "This club soon broke up, but a kindred one was soon formed in the west. The influences of the new Labor Party are still manifest."

With the beginning of the World War, a tremendous amount of discontent was evidenced in Quebec and it is from this restlessness that the present Quebec Labor Party was formed in 1915.

NOTED EXPLORER ON ESKIMOS

Dr. Knud Rasmussen Will Lecture
in Moyse Hall Today

At four o'clock this afternoon, the great Danish explorer, Dr. Knud Rasmussen, will give an address in the Moyse Hall. This will be an illustrated lecture on "The Spiritual Life of the Eskimo."

Anyone desirous of attending can obtain a ticket free upon application at the Registrar's office.

Dr. Rasmussen is the greatest living authority on the life and habits of the Greenland Eskimo. He has returned recently from Greenland, where he went last summer with the Putnam expedition which included also the University of Michigan Greenland Expedition. The Danish Government has taken special pains to preserve the Eskimo, and to protect them from the unscrupulous explorer and the debasing influences of white civilization.

The lecture is to be given under the auspices of the Sigma Xi. Mr. Williams will be chairman, while Mr. Boggild, the Danish Consul at Montreal, will introduce the speaker.

Wisconsin Teaches Dancing

The University of Wisconsin is the first university to offer dancing as a major course in its curriculum. The course entails four years work, sciences and cultured studies being included as well as dancing. The aim of the course is to develop personality and appreciation of art through the knowledge of dancing.

CARBONIZATION DEVELOPMENT INDISPENSABLE

CHEMICAL SOCIETY

Mr. L. R. Thomson Reviews
History of Coal as a Source of Heat

Mr. Leslie R. Thomson was the main speaker at the McGill Chemical Society last evening. Tea and light refreshments preceded the meeting. The secretary then read the minutes and the speaker was introduced by the president.

The subject of Mr. Thomson's illustrated lecture dealt with recent advances in low temperature carbonization. By carbonization, he meant, the distillation of coal free from oxygen. Before entering deeply into the topic, the speaker gave a careful, historical review of coal.

Coal, he stated, appears late in the annals of chemical discoveries. In olden times, people knew of it, but were at a loss as how to deal with it economically and commercially. As a source of heat, it has been but lately made known. However, as the years progressed, economic pressure demanded coal, especially as forests were gradually yielding their last. Then followed experiments and tests which have tried in many ways to employ coal domestically. Again, the production of coal-gas raised many serious objections as to health.

As for the products obtained from coal, in 1815, Achem discovered tar. In 1856, Perkin, through distillation, received a new substance—benzene. Then, German scientists continued more research work on the metal and made rapid advances. It was here, he stated, that there were many difficulties, the chief one being the constant increase of the price of coal. However, in spite of this, the production of a smokeless fuel and of low temperature carbonization took up much of the time of the remaining investigators.

In order to obtain a competent distillation of coal several processes were invented. There were 125 in all. The speaker then compared the low temperature carbonization with the high, showing that the former was more efficient and advantageous.

Again to produce excellent results in this branch of chemical industry, such instruments as retorts were only to be used. These retorts were to be regarded as mechanical, contrivances, and hence, having efficiency. Accordingly, chemists obtained a retort with an 80 per cent. efficiency. Mr. Thomson then presented several slides to the audience one of these demonstrating McIntire's retort, he pointed out to be the best yet constructed. He also stated that (Continued on page four)

REVUE MAKING GOOD PROGRESS

Chairmen Present Excellent
Reports

The Red and White Revue of 1927 is now well into the shaping up process and to date is over a month and a half in advance of the show this time last year. It was pointed out at a Production committee meeting yesterday afternoon. The producer urged that all intending to compete in the skit and music contest for which money prizes of twenty-five and fifteen dollars are being offered should remember that scarcely three weeks remain before the competition closes. Several manuscripts had been submitted in the past two weeks, he said, and while December 21 is the final day, it is desirable that the material be submitted as early as possible before the holidays.

The several sub-committees are now virtually completed and have the work of their departments under way, according to reports from the committee chairman. Final decisions were reached regarding the precise form of construction that this year's Revue will follow and, while it will be of the general revue character, it will differ in several major respects to those of the previous two years.

Lawrence Hart, chairman of the Music committee, observed that unusual enthusiasm was being displayed in the composing of musical numbers for the Revue, and manuscripts handed in so (Continued on page three)

Informal Dance Takes Place At Union Dec. 17

At a meeting of the Union House Committee last night, it was decided to hold another informal dance on Dec. 17.

This will take the form of a Christmas dance, and will take place in the Union Ballroom. Tickets will be sold at the usual price of 1.25 a couple. There is sure to be a great demand for tickets in view of the success of the last affair.

The pasteborders will be in the hands of the class president at 9, Tuesday morning. They are allotted on a pro rata basis and the number is limited.

Tenders for an orchestra for the occasion are called for by the committee, the selection to be announced at an early date.

MEN HAVE HIGHER PHYSICAL RATING

McGill School of Physical Education Issues Report

McGill students have a higher physical rating than last year, it was reported at a meeting of the McGill School of Physical Education Committee held on Thursday at the university. It was found, through the medical examinations conducted by this department, that 81.75 per cent. of the 981 men students attending McGill who were examined up to October 14 are in the "A" category as against 83 per cent. if the 931 men students examined at that time last year. The report points out that 1,169 examinations have been conducted this year as compared with 1,104 last year.

In addition a report was made from the health service of the department, which offers its services to students of the university. As the general report of the department points out, this was formed in order to meet the demand for medical attention to students who were unfortunate enough to fall ill during the college session of the academic year 1920-21.

"At this time the university fees were being readjusted and authorization was secured to include in the undergraduate fee the sum of two dollars, which was set aside to take care of this service," Dr. A. S. Lamb, the director, explained in his report. This health service includes a daily consultation hour from 12.30 to 1.30 o'clock at which each student can receive medical advice in addition to being prescribed for. The university medical officer visits the homes or boarding houses of students who are not well enough to attend college. If on examination it is found that a student requires admission to the hospital, it is arranged by requisition, the expense being borne by the university for the first seven days. The object is to take care of the out-of-town students who perhaps are not members of any fraternity and have no friends in the city.

Report on the growth of this service showed an increase of 23 per cent during the academic year 1925-26, with the highest figure coming during the session 1924-25 when 505 students were receiving attention from the service. During the same period office consultations have increased from 992 to 2,326 although the increase is uneven, with the most office consultations recorded during the session 1923-24 when the number reached 2,478. Office consultations of the year 1924-25 numbered 2,463.

Visits to homes have decreased from 184 to 159, although the high mark came in the year 1922-23 when 374 calls were made.

GOWN WEARING LIABLE TO SET UP PRECEDENT

First Steps Decisive Says Professor
Sugars

MERE INNOVATION

If Adopted, Gown Should be Worn by all Classes of Faculty

"If the student body wishes the wearing of gowns to become a precedent, I do not believe that the result can be achieved in any other way than by imposing it, not as a voluntary measure, but by faculty authority," stated Prof. R. M. Sugars, M.A., A.L.A., Head of the School of Commerce when his opinion on the matter in hand was solicited.

"The first thing that must be determined in the student's mind is undoubtedly whether or not the donning of a gown should become a precedent. If the question is finally decided in the affirmative, then measures must be taken to make the wearing of this undergraduate insignia compulsory. Another thing that should be done in order to establish the new idea more firmly would be to make every class in the faculty wear the distinguishing apparel. If one class is to adopt the gown, I certainly do not believe that its use could be restricted to that one class, but should be adopted every year."

"Of course it could easily be arranged to have a mark of inferiority for freshmen, by allowing them to wear an ordinary black stuff gown, with no pleats or folds, in contradistinction to the faculty gown worn by the higher years in the faculty. It is absurd to propose that the gown should be worn by only a few privileged students of the upper classes. In this case the innovation would most certainly die off very shortly after it was instituted.

"On the other hand, gowns should not be brought into college again in order only to please the vanity of certain students who may fancy themselves in them. They might be humiliated to learn that it is impossible for them ever to look as pretty in them as the women students."

"I remember when I was in Brackley, students at the university there started to wear a new type of cap and gown. They were greatly fancied for a while, but they seemed to have also a great appeal to the women, and when the sisters of the students started to wear the same gown, the men quickly abandoned wearing them. This may very possibly occur here, for I understand that the R.V.C. seniors have decided in favor of the gown."

"Whichever way the issue goes, I believe that the first steps should be decisive, in order to establish the new idea more firmly or else to retain our present uniformity of dress."

RECEIPTS OF UNION SHOW AN INCREASE

Expenses Also Higher Than
Same Month a Year Ago

The receipts of every department of the Union have been higher this past month than in the month of November last year. Last November the receipts of the Cafeteria amounted to $3,480.00 as compared to $2,791.45 for the same month last year; an increase of $688.55. The billiard room took in $543.00 last month as compared with $423.00 a year ago; an increase of $120.00. $641.60 went up in smoke, as compared with $569 last year while consumption of candy showed an increase of $14.00 from $244.00 a year ago to $258.00 last month.

Expenses also showed an increase over those of a year ago but apparently not as large proportionately as the increase in receipts. The total amount paid out last month, including provisions for the cafeteria, wages etc., was $12,460.00 as compared with an even $12,000.00 in November a year ago; an increase of only $460.00.

Provisions for the Cafeteria were by far the largest expense. Vegetables amounted to $327.50, ice cream to $275.00, Milk $394.00, Bread $417.00, meats $872.00, eggs, butter, smoked hams etc. $391.00. Cafeteria patrons ate $60.00 worth of sausages, (purchase price) the mileage was not given, they consumed $200.00 worth of fish. Coca-Cola adds must be bringing some results since $123.00 worth of soft drinks were (Continued on page three)

Extra-Curricular Education

INCLUDED in the term "a liberal education" are a great many extra-curricular forms of education which are at times pleasing, at times dull, always greatly varied, and too often questionable and even objectionable. Among the highly commendable forms of light education in widespread and diverse fields is attention to speeches and lectures delivered at frequent intervals on interesting topics before the student body. The meat of the matter touched upon by the speaker may be lean and of little import; the widespread interest elicited by the highly diversified choice of subjects can nevertheless bring about nothing less than an enlarged point of view. Tolerance, broadness of mind, is the pivot upon which modern education revolves. Extra-curricular lectures must therefore play a great part in the development of a student's mind. Already this year we have had speeches on labor problems, religion, the League of Nations, literary subjects, educational defects, business and commerce, and a broad array of scientific theories and investigations. The Canadian Club, the Labor Club, the National Council of education, and the university, all help to bring before the attention of the undergraduate a numberless flood of more or less interesting and instructive people, who at least show willingness to extend man's knowledge. Some of the speakers have been very fine. Others were admittedly indifferent. How many of them have you heard? This afternoon McGill is welcoming Mr. Rasmussen, the great explorer, who is to address us on the Spiritual Life of the Eskimos. Mr. Rasmussen has attained world-wide fame, and is also a most competent authority on the subject of his address. His lecture will doubtless be very much worth-while. How many of you will hear him?

The Labor Club

IT is gratifying to note that a group of earnest young men at McGill have organized into a Labor Club, and that a great part of the deliberations of this club centre about contemporary problems in Canada. The purpose of such an organization is manifestly that of studying labor questions of the day, with a view of predicting and eliminating or at least decreasing the violence and agony of the industrial troubles of the future. A sympathetic analytical study of Canadian problems, from the standpoint of labor, among those who will be industrial leaders, capitalists, and politicians in the future, will help to bring about a greater understanding between counts of last night's meeting of the new society, they were treated to a description of the aims and methods in politics of the Labor Party in Canada. Those who were present will draw their own conclusions as to whether it is right or wrong that labor should be represented by a special body in parliament.

However, a matter of greater importance to the students after giving ear to a manifestation which was certainly instructive, if perhaps somewhat of a propagandist nature, is to differentiate between the theory of class politics and the actual practice. A discussion in which it was decided whether or not such a party voices the feelings of its followers in the policy enunciated in its platform, whether or not class politics are as a rule detrimental, would serve to establish the club at McGill as a very live organization, studying in a pleasant way problematical issues of the day, and judging in a non-partisan manner about grievances and remedies. We need such a club at McGill, a forum before which leading questions of the hour can be brought up and discussed. If the Labor Club fills this purpose in a certain restricted field of study, it is fulfilling a long-felt need at McGill.

Suggested Agenda Of Conference

The following is the suggested agenda of the conference of Representatives of Student Bodies of Canadian Universities which is being held in Montreal, December 28, 29, 30 and 31 for the purpose of discussing the formation of a National Federation of Canadian Students similar to that of England and Wales, Australia,

South Africa and others on the continent.
11 a.m. — 12 noon Registration of representatives, Presentation of credentials, Election of Conference Chairman and Secretary.
2 p.m. — 3.30 p.m. Opening address, Mr. N. A. MacKenzie, Assistant Legal Advisor to the International Labor Bureau, League of Nations, now professor of International Law.

Subject: The History of the National Union of Students Movement; its operation in England, South Africa, Australia and on the Continent; the purpose it serves in these countries.

Note. Professor MacKenzie, a graduate of Dalhousie University, Harvard Law School and Cambridge, is well fitted to present the History of these movements as he has been present at the National Union of Students Conference in England as well as the conferences of the confederation International des etudiants.

Discussion and questions will follow his address by MacKenzie.
4 p.m. — 5 p.m. Discussion of the advantages to Canadian students of ideas forming a Federation of Canadian Students.

(1) Promotion of understanding and exchange of ideas between eastern, and western and central University sections of Canada.

(2) Interprovincial scholarships — exchange of students — possibility of government assistance for such scholarships.

(3) Arrangement of debates and athletic events between Universities — present system if any — how Federation could improve on or assist present methods of exchanging teams in debating and athletics.

(4) Value of Federation in securing special privileges in reduced railway fares for students travelling between Universities.

(5) Value of Federation as a clearing house of ideas between the various universities on matters of student government, student publications and student activities generally.

Note: These suggested subjects for discussion would also bring out the difficulties which student representatives might see in the formation of a Federation of Canadian students.

Tuesday, 8 p.m. — 9.30 p.m. Summing up of afternoon's discussion. It is suggested that at this session committees be appointed to study on Wednesday and report on Thursday to the Conference their findings on the following phases of a Federation of Canadian Students.

(1) Scope of a Federation of Canadian Students.

(2) Financing of the Federation.

(3) Organization of the Federation — officers machinery — method of representation, conferences, etc.

(4) International relations of the Federation, if any. Form that such relations should take.

(5) Scholarships — interprovincial, international — sending of Canadian Students abroad.

Wednesday — The Committee under direction of Chairman will study the questions referred to them and prepare a written report.

Thursday, 10 a.m. — 12 noon, Reports of Committees — discussion — adoption of reports.

2 p.m. — 3 p.m. Discussion as to type and form of Federation of Canadian Students. Appointment of drafting committee with instructions to draft a constitution of the Federation of Canadian Students for representation in Conference Friday morning.

Friday, 10 a.m. — 12 noon. Presentation of draft constitution — appointment of Temporary officers until constitution is ratified by or registered by Canadian University Students Councils.

At Local Theatres Next Week

AT THE PRINCESS
The announcement that "The Green Hat" with Katharine Cornell and the Broadway cast will be at the Princess theatre for its Montreal Premiere week beginning Monday eve December 6th is replete with interest for all theatre-goers;—for "The Green Hat" is easily the outstanding dramatic treat of the Season.

First as a novel, then as a play dramatized by the author, "The Green Hat" by Michael Arlen has become not only a notable and brilliant achievement in the world of books and the theatre but something of a phenomenon. No play ever achieved such great fame before production; and very few achieved such success afterwards. In New York; in Chicago; in London; and everywhere else "The Green Hat" has become an inevitable incident in everybody's life. Not to have seen it; not to be able to discuss its unusual sad story and its remarkable heroine, is to confess oneself sadly behind the times. Familiarity with the novel only serves to increase one's interest in the play; for, although many of the incidents in the life of Iris March set forth in the book are used in the dramatic version, they are unfolded in such a manner as to constitute fresh entertainment.

A. H. Woods has held together the splendid company headed by Katharine Cornell that shared in the honors which have been showered upon the Michael Arlen love story for the past sixty-theatrical weeks and the production is the identical one presented on Broadway.

Supporting Katherine Cornell are A. P. Kaye, Gordon Ash, Eugene Powers, Gustave Rolland, Alan Hollis, John Buckler, St. Clair Bayfield, Harry Lillford, Worthing C. Miner, Pamela Simpson, Anne Tonetti, Mary Scott Seton, and others.

The usual Matinees, Wednesday and Saturday at popular prices will also be given.

AT THE GAYETY

Shakespeare was right when he wrote "Music is the food of love". Never in this history of this country have there been so many touring Bands as at this time. Little wonder therefore that everybody is happy; giving as it were the laugh to the gloom. That is the reason why Geo. Young, christened his happiest show "Laffin Thru" at the Gayety Theatre on Sunday Eve and all next week with Peaches, and her own Monte Carlo Jazz Band as the big dominating feature of the show. Peaches is the most talked about woman in the amusement world and she secured this distinction by her own efforts in establishing a first-class Jazz Band that will stand comparison with the best of them, and be her own conductor, solo saxophone player, Shmoo dancer and general all-round entertainer. In addition to Peaches, there is Joe Van, the lanky comic with the dancing feet, Althea Conley, the Juncoque prima donna with the Tetraxini note; Al Flatco, an Italian comedian, new upon the Mutual Circuit; Mae Serpas, a dancing scoubrette that sings; Mickey Stevens, a pretty and clever little dancer, and a dozen others who all lend their abilities and efforts to make the show a success.

AT THE IMPERIAL

Next week will be "All Nationality Week" at the Imperial Theatre, an occasion of special tribute to the nationalities which have participated in vaudeville's development. Margaret Romaine, soprano, will represent Wales on this cosmopolitan bill. Dave Seed and Ralph Austin, English and Hebrew comedians, come next with their comedy sketch, "Things and Stuff." Boyle and Della are Americans, who will entertain with their offering "How's That." Spain and Russia have sent Kola and Sylvia company in "Happy Moments of Dancing and Piano," which promises something new in the blending of these two arts. The three Strolling Vagrants, from Italy, are minstrels who strum and sing lulling melodies, completing the vaudeville bill are Naynon's trained tropical birds. Marie Prevost, supported by Victor Complete the vaudeville bill are film feature.

AT THE CAPITOL

Rex Ingram's well remembered screen classic, "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse", one of the greatest films ever produced by the industry, has returned in triumph in response to a flood of requests from exhibitors all over the country, and will be shown at the Capitol starting Sunday and all week. This picture, unsurpassed as an artistic record of its time, is the film that brought the late Rudolph Valentino to fame. Valentino plays opposite Alice Terry in this picture, and in it does some of the best work he ever contributed to the screen. An enormous cast was employed by Director Ingram with phenomenal success in translating the popular Ibanex novel to the screen. Its first showing aroused unprecedented enthusiasm in New York, Chicago, Boston, Pittsburgh, Detroit, Los Angeles and other film centers, where it was characterized by the critics as one of the great pictures of all time.

June Mathis made the adaptation for the Rex Ingram production for Metro-Goldwyn.

An extraordinary attraction will be presented "A Study in Mental Telepathy" or "Ask and you shall receive" with Buddy Payne and Company assisted on the Mighty Warren Comedy, News Reel and Weekly Overture will also be featured.

AT LEWIS

Do you remember those days not so long ago when "It's a Long Way to Tipperary" was on every body's lips? When you never knew who would be the next boy to say "Good bye" folks, I'm off! Joined up a few minutes ago? When you watched anxiously for the first letter from France, and hoped that your son or brother or sweetheart would be the first to get sweet for dear old Blighty?

The war is only used as an incidental part of "Every Mother's Son", which opens tomorrow, Sunday at Loew's Theatre, but the filming of episodes about the great struggle are done so convincingly that you feel in the presence of the real thing.

Into the every day life of a prosperous English village comes the news that Great Britain has declared war against Germany; bills are passed prominently advising the people that the recruiting station that district is Stainton—in a few hours off goes Tony Browning after a long farewell to his father and mother.

Driving down the peaceful English country road Browning, in his car sees a group of youths and men reading the posters—all of them ready to rush to the colours at once. He bids them all jump into his car and drives off with them hanging all over the motor, running boards and all crammed with youthful patriots. A bit down the road comes Nobby, a cheerful good-for-nothing tramp, who when he sees the crowd, hops on the running board, greets them all as pals and is off to join up.

A motley gang, a crew of as unlikely recruits as you would wish to see, but Tommy Atkins with wooden guns and awkward hands and feet is still the Tommy Atkins who made the world safe for humanity and democracy for the past thousand years. This bit of the picture will appeal to everybody.

The featured stage attraction will be Eva Fay known as the High Priestess of Mysticism.

Secrets of 1926 is the name of an excellent revue to be presented with a cast of nine people who will be seen in spectacular dances and specialties.

Gordon and Perce will offer their humorous skit entitled "I Don't Care" Two clever impersonators Lydell and Gibson call themselves versatile Vaudevillians.

Burns and MacIntyre are said to have golden voices and will offer popular and classical numbers.

A comedy juggling act in which Redford and Wallace are the principals will open the bill.

AT PALACE THEATRE

"Missmates," a picture starring Doris Kenyon and Warner Baxter, will be seen at the Palace theatre next week. This film is said to be unusual in many ways, with a gripping story beautifully photographed well directed and with some gorgeous spectacles, including a jewel parade and a banquet ball scene. The supporting cast is an all star one. Philo McCollough, as the "heavy," has one of the most interesting roles of his career, while charming Mae Allison and the comedian, Charles Murray, are said to do distinctive work. Little Nancy Kelly, who plays the part of a three-year-old boy, is another juvenile screen find. Others in the cast include John Kolb, Maude Turner Gordon, Dyrill Ring and Charles Beyer. Among the stage attractions will be Andy Tipaldi and his melody Kings, as well as a varied programme by excellent talent.

Correspondence

The sentiments expressed in letters published in this column are those of the writers, not necessarily of the editors. Signed communications from anyone interested in the welfare of McGill University will be printed. Anonymity will be preserved when requested but the writer's name and address must be attached as a mark of good faith.

Correspondents will please write legibly and use one side of the paper only. If you would be pungent, be brief.

The Editor,
McGill Daily.

It is with deep satisfaction that I read your editorial in yesterday's issue suggesting some sort of big get-together just previous to going home for the holidays. The idea is to be commended, for I am sure that it will help remind all the undergraduates that the Christmas season is at hand; and may perhaps have the effect of imbuing them with the spirit of Yuletide.

But may I add a point or two which might contribute to the success of such a meeting as you advocate. If the thing is taken in hand immediately, there should be an ensemble recitation or chorus by the freshmen classes of Christmas carols, done in an evergreen setting. (Then possibly the honour students of the English department might be taught to read selections from Dickens so that additional atmosphere might be lent to this occasion when students part for the space of two weeks.

The main point that I would like to offer is that special efforts should be made to have Santa Claus present at this Xmas Pep Rally. He could address the gathering on some subject of common interest and then distribute little gifts to those in attendance.

Undoubtedly, there will be considerable objection forthcoming from those in charge of the Moyses Hall as the venture is possibly not quite "educational or classical" but that would really be overcome if the honour students in English were given a prominent position in the program. There are limitless possibilities to such an occasion as advocated in your editorial or classical" but that would go far in order to fix the mind of the student body so that our final rally for the year 1926 would be successful.

I am etc.,
PLUM PUDDING.

Petit Parisien

Dear Monsieur McGill Daily:—

I have decided to join ze chorus of ze wonderful opera which is call "Tom Moans" but not until after I have severe debate in my mind. At first I think I will go in for ze Red and White Review, and then ze Fortnightly Review, but I have one talk with Mr. Alin and I discover that these things are low-down and are only fit for ze poor minds which fill ze university and which should be k ck out, so I believe all he say and join ze chorus of "Tom Moans".

But bah heck, when I read ze story of "Tom Moans" I think to myself, I have never read anything in my life which is so low down and vulgar and which I will censor if I have ze chance But my choice it is make and I join ze chorus.

"Can you sing" ask ze musical director when I come to him.

"No, but I can make good moans" I say.

"That is no good," he say.

"Why, does not Tom moan?" I ask. He say no and emphasiz ze what he say. So he try me out, and he say.

"You are quite bass."

I tell him I am not use to be insulted but he explain and say that I have good deep-down voice which is call bass. So he place me in ze chorus and I have to look on at musque with one great big tall fellow, and we cannot find ze place to hold ze music where he have to look down as far as I have to look up.

Then we start, but as soon as we start, we stop.

"Monsieur DeBuckette!" call out ze director.

"Yes?"

"Open your mouth one half of one inch more — just like Monsieur Smith. Yes—yes—that is right. But smile. No, No! not laugh, just smile. You smile too much—you grin. Yes, that is right."

But when I try to sing I cannot. I have to waste all my time looking nice.

"Monsieur DeBuckette, you are not praying. Do not look up like that—Monsieur Smith you are not thinking. Do not look down like that—you do not know your music?—you should."

Yours truly,
AUGUSTINE DEBUCKETTE

P. S. I have join ze Red and White Review.

A large dark touring car sped along a dim, lonely country road. The forms of the two occupants were barely visible in the gathering dusk. They were not noticeably talkative.

Finally, "Now be careful, Bob." This in a high-pitched female voice.

A moment's silence.

Again, "Bob! Stop!"

No reply.

And then, "Now, Bob, you're going too far tonight."

A pause.

"Bob, if you don't stop this instant, I'll—"

And Bob turned sadly and replied, "Yes, m'dear. I'll turn back at the first side road, but you needn't worry about our getting lost. I know this road perfectly."

Yes, they were married. . . . Why? —Ex.

BLUE FAVORED TO WIN RUGBY CHAMPIONSHIP

Collegians Go Into Dominion Final
Minus Three Regulars

FROZEN FIELD

Varsity's Backfield Considered Superior to Ottawa's — Many Injuries Expected

Toronto, December 3.—Ottawa Senators arrived here tonight full of fight and confidence. Every man on the squad expects to down the Blue in tomorrow's Dominion football final.

Varsity is now Toronto's best and only bet for a Championship. The elimination of the McCormicks by St. Thomas yesterday dissipated any hope that may have existed of a Junior title coming here. It is now strictly up to the students to maintain the prestige of the Queen city as a football centre.

That they will do this little thing with credit to themselves and the grand old institution they represent is a certainty. But whether they will flip the wings of the Senators is another story. These veterans from Ottawa are hard to beat when there is anything at stake, and the prize tomorrow is the biggest in Dominion football.

And there is every likelihood that it will not be the most pleasant afternoon imaginable tomorrow either for the contending champions or the ticket-holders of whom there promises to be plenty as it is a long while since a Varsity team has figured in a senior Dominion final.

Ottawa is sending its quota of enthusiasts for the game and the indications all point to a large attendance. It wouldn't hurt much if it rains or snows as the historic grid at the Stadium resembles nothing more or less than a gigantic washboard. The recent cold spell has tightened up the turf until it is harder than the asphalt outside and bumper than the roadbed at the intersections.

The boys will need to wear everything that they possess in the way of defensive armor tomorrow in order to escape injury. The game under the conditions may not go to the swift, but to the most durable and these huskies from Ottawa are the original rough and ready.

It will be remembered that the Senators stood the tri-color on their devoted heads last year in the snow at Ottawa, playing their best game of the campaign to do the trick and the team essentially is unchanged from that occasion. Formidable at any time the Tubman-Miller tribe are at their best when the weather is wintry.

Little if any apprehensions as felt at Varsity about the outcome. The Collegians, even with Rykert Hutchinson and Bales appear strong enough to Toronto. There are no weak places apparent anywhere in the line-up; all the players are keyed up to the limit and keen to get it over with. Ottawa's ability is not discounted, but it is the general opinion that the students are the better all-round aggregation. Trimble, Snyder and Sinclair are considered to be far superior in every respect to any backfield trio that the Canadian champions can muster.

There's no Holding Them

Denver, Colorado, Dec. 4. (By Exchange Service) — "Hold 'em frosh! Come on sophomores!"

The sophomore women at the University of Colorado challenged the freshmen co-eds to a football game, which the latter accepted, and the game will be a precedent in the university. The two classes are making athletic history in the first game of co-ed football held in the state.

Last year at Denver University, the sophomores challenged the freshmen, and the game was scheduled, and practices had begun, when their dean of women declared that football was unadvisable and too hard for girls, so the game was cancelled.

If the girls of Colorado are successful and come out without any broken bones, it is hoped that the dean may relent and let the co-eds of the University of Denver play also, and take their place among the athletic women of the state.

HOCKEY TEAM AT FULL STRENGTH FOR GAME

Meet St. Francois-National at Forum Monday Evening

The McGill senior hockey squad held their last workout today prior to the game with the St. Francois-National Club.

The fracas takes place on Monday evening at the Forum, and as McGill students are admitted by their student coupons, all indications point to a great gathering of students to cheer their team in the first home start.

All the men are in tip top shape, and the league-leading French club is likely to stack up against a formidable squad of men when the red, white and blue clash with the red.

The arrangement that proved so successful last Monday against Victorias will most likely be used. Don Smith will line up alongside of McGerrigle on the defence, Lalshley will support them in goal, and McMahon, Mickles and St. Germain will perform on the forward line.

The St. Francois line up consists of the Bank Canadienne Nationale almost entirely. With such stars as Pednault, Gaudreault and Jerry Reid on the line up of the French team, they should furnish the red squad with a severe test. There is sure to be big doings at the Forum on Monday evening.

far lead one to expect an excellent showing in the musical aspect of the production. Large costume, dance, and scenery committees have been chosen so as not only to attend to the many details that the show involves, but also to lighten the work demanded of the executive heads of the different departments.

The general feeling at yesterday's meeting seemed to be that the show will be moulded into form by the end of the holidays and ready to go into rehearsal as soon as lectures resume. A new form of casting the principals and supers for the production is at present being perfected, the producer informed the meeting, as the method pursued in past years was anything but satisfactory.

This is the first time in the history of Red and White Revues, one of the production executive remarked last night, that the body of the show has been almost decided upon so early in the year. This advance, he pointed out, will undoubtedly contribute greatly to a more perfect and professional offering and also tend to interfere considerably less with academic work than in former shows.

FOUR CANDIDATES FOR CAPTAINCY

"Irish" Monahan Among Queen's Players Mentioned for Post

Kingston, Ont., December 3.—In the course of a few days Queen's rugby players will meet to elect a captain for the senior squad and at the present several names are being mentioned as possible field leaders for next season.

Cliff Howard, crack middle wing his side-kick "Irish" Monahan; "Hank" Brown and Jimmy Wright, are being prominently mentioned as likely to be chosen to lead the team next fall, and it is just a toss-up who will get the call.

BOTH BASKETBALL TEAMS PLAY TODAY

SECONDS TONIGHT

Intermediates Play Y.M.H.A. on Latter's Floor—Prospects for Title Bright

The senior and intermediate basketball squads held a light work-out at the Montreal High School gymnasium last night as a final preparation for today's games. Both teams were put through a short but strenuous scrimmage and appeared to be fit and ready for the initial contests. The passing and shooting was of particularly high order and there should prove to be important factors in the outcome of the season's first encounters.

This afternoon's contest between the seniors and Quebec City's foremost outfit will be the first of three which the red and white first string squad will play on three successive Saturdays. Coach Van Wagner believes that the best way to train his team for the intercollegiate race is to provide them with as much opposition as possible and with this in mind it has been arranged that the senior team will play three games before the vacation. Besides today's exhibition there will be contests on December 11 against Y.M.H.A. seniors and a week later versus the M.A.A. first team.

At the same time the intermediates will not be forgotten for they will also figure in a trio of exhibition affairs. Starting their season tonight against the Y.M.H.A. team, they will also engage M.A.A.A. on the eighteenth and it is hoped to find a team that will be willing to play them on the eleventh of this month.

This afternoon's senior battle is scheduled to begin at 12:45. The team from the ancient capital is an unknown quantity but it is expected that they will give the red and white quintette a hard fight and it is not beyond the range of possibility that they may turn the tables on the favored redmen.

Both teams are at top form and the intermediates particularly are displaying such excellent condition that it is expected that they may even displace some of the regulars before long. It is several years now since such optimistic reports have been filtering out of the red and white training quarters so early in the season and championship prospects just at present at any rate are very rosy.

In this afternoon's senior affair Sacks and Grossman are expected to start on the forward line with Haydon, another likely looking youngster, in reserve. Weldon will in all probability get the call to begin at centre but Faulkner will also be on hand to help him out. Captain Amaron and ex-captain Quackenbush will line up on the defence while Johnson and Hicks will do the subbing. All the men will be given a chance to do their stuff as the main purpose of the game is to give the seniors lots of practice.

The intermediate encounter will take place at the Y.M.H.A. at 7:45 when the McGill seconds will line up against the Hebrew boys in an exhibition contest. In all ten men will be available for duty and they will all be given a trial to show just how good they are. The intermediate players who will be in the game tonight are Fraser, Silverman, Stattner, Munroe, Wykes, Calhoun, Feldman, Covshoff, Loures and Blumenthal.

DR. LEVY-BRUHL SPEAKS

The New Student
From the Sorbonne, the oldest existing school of research in the world came Professor Levy-Bruhl to speak at the fiftieth anniversary of Johns Hopkins, the first American university to make research its paramount aim. Professor Levy-Bruhl spoke on the importance of research that is uninterested in immediate problems. "All our engineering," he said, "all the huge mass of our multifarious industries has its root in the disinterested and purely theoretical research of a few men of science in a petty corner of the west, some twenty-four centuries ago. History warns us," he said, "against the temptation and damages of rating the rank and value of the various kinds of research according to their immediate and apparent usefulness."

John Hopkins is on the threshold of a drastic reorganization, called the New Plan. This plan calls for elimination of the A. B. degree and of the first two years of undergraduate work. Students will take their elementary work elsewhere and commence at John Hopkins during their junior year. Specialized research will be begun at that time.

HYGIENE TOPIC OF SPEECH AT LOCAL HOTEL

copts of scientific specialists in hygiene, depends on at least two great achievements made by these workers: the sanitation of the environment, by which the typhoid fever and infant mortality rates have been dropped; and the sanitation by which the communicable diseases have been controlled to a very large extent.

"These two campaigns, while they have enlisted a great deal of effort on the part of experts and leaders, as well as the power and authority of government, have still not succeeded in stopping the death rate. A great many diseases remain uncontrolled. And so, we invent hygiene, which tries to remedy disease by imposing a few responsibilities on the individual. There are all kinds of hygiene: infant, maternal, school, industrial, social and mental. And the last one is truly a most fascinating one, because it connects up all the others. All the hygienies are really parts of one large movement, with each one permeating all the others. Thus, maternal, school and industrial hygiene are intimately connected with mental hygiene, and with each other."

The speaker inserted here the story of the first humanitarian employed, Robert Owen. This Scotchman wrecked his hard-headed reputation for business by retaining and employing his workmen even after a failure of the cotton supply. By the time cotton could again be had for the ordinary manufacturer in his mills, he had a ready and satisfied staff of employees; and so really gained in the long run. Fortified by what he had so easily achieved, Owen became philosopher and determinist; and worked out schemes for industrial ventilation and sanitation, and for the food and housing problems of the human element in production. His workmen really had an interest in their work.

"And now people are studying the mental as well as the physical conditions of workmen." A great deal of mental hygiene information has also been gained from the study of people in penal institutions, and from mental hospitals. Not so long ago, the doctrine of total depravity explained satisfactorily why people in gaol deserved to be there, and vice versa. But enquiry soon showed that some people merely did not have enough "brains" to stay out and remain "within the law"; while a great many others were not in gaol who certainly deserved to be there. Another trouble of yesterday, was that concerning "criminal children". The difference between criminality and undue mischief in children even yet, slight and theoretical. Under the old scheme those children who were not at all bad, were soon converted into true criminals by the morale and companionship of the penal institution. Only when these cases were taken out of the ordinary courts and the juvenile court created, was the problem at all helped by the scientific co-operation of psychiatrist and probation officer, together with the sympathy and experience of the social worker. "You have no idea," stated Dr. Vincent, "how human institutions can really be, when you stop making them legal."

In order to determine who are to be the candidates for mental hospitals and penal institutions, we have to determine what we may understand by "normality." We can then label the unfortunate when these fall appreciably below the normal level; and the labelling is by no means easy to do. "Normal" means "average." The normal temperature is the average temperature of millions of temperatures taken the world over. The majority of such measurements are very much, or very nearly, the same; but above and below this "average figure" the others become progressively fewer and fewer in number. In a similar way are obtained average figures for weight, height and other factors of a physical or even mental nature.

These variations from the normal or average, are spoken of as abnormal; and extend all the way up to genius, or all the way down to degeneracy (de genus). And one can easily classify society into five groups mentally: genius average, mediocre, feeble-minded, and insane. So far, the mental hygiene has been applied in the study of school children and university students especially; but it bids fair to invade all the other hygienies as well. School children have been classified; the average ones go on to success in higher education and in the vocations; while those who early disclose nervous and abnormal traits and aberrations, come to grief very early in their careers.

"The education of chimpanzees in Yale University may throw some light on the education of undergraduates at colleges." With this facetious and introductory remark, the psychiatrist went on to show how, especially in the United States, the "problemiferous students" were being studied at Dartmouth and Cornell and in other institutions of learning. Students have exchanged religious problems for inferiority complexes; some have become on that account, morbid, bashful and too introspective; others have gone to the other extreme and become bluffers and bullies as a sort of defence reaction. At the colleges mentioned, tactful and appropriate in one case, on experimenting with low temperature carbonization, an amount of $7,000,000 was expended.

CARBONIZATION INDISPENSABLE

Concluding, Mr. Thomson stated that the McIntire report is the only successful one in North America today. Its production is vastly greater than has ever been discovered, while the cost of operating the machine is extremely low. "In dealing with a subject as this," he stated "the best approach is to determine the chemical principles involved when combining heat and coal. Again, technical difficulties must be overcome, such as the construction of suitable appliances; and finally, capital and expenditure should be carefully brought to account."

talks by capable specialists have done a great deal for such men.

And so we come to the parents and the home. One cannot do much with the mental hygiene of children at school, if they are to go home and experience a different teaching and environment there. "Some feel that parents are hopeless", but a great deal has been done already with the establishment of Child Guidance clinics for parents, where they are shown how to deal with non-eaters, thumb-suckers or with those who display too much passion or "persist in pushing things up their noses with passionate pleasure."

"The science of mental hygiene has only just started. Problems are only just becoming clear, and they show that more and more is yet to be learned. So we go on with our investigations and our specialists did only unconsciously and haphazardly; and finally on a good factual scientific basis we are erecting the correlated aspects of consciousness and behaviourism in modern psychology and psychiatry. The science is much needed and has come to stay. It aims at controlling the conditions of home and school and environment; and believes in safeguarding the public."

Doctor Vincent closed his review with a capitulation on the duties of a mental hygiene committee. These were chiefly to distribute facts and to compile surveys about delinquents and inmates of mental hospitals; as well as to get governments and the public interested. The committee should also seek to train and develop University men who are to go on with the research, and establish more centres right through the country, making of every community an intellectual and investigating body. "One need not worry about a Utopian paradise of the future where no mental aberration will exist; and where everyone will possess physical integrity and emotional calm. Such a state is still far off, and would be a most uninteresting and uneventful one, were it here. Let research be applied without noise or blare of trumpets. Slowly and attacking the problems as they present themselves, let us day by day, scientifically and scrupulously learn all there is to know about the mental diseases and problems of mankind."

The Canadian National Committee of Mental Hygiene was paid a beautiful tribute by their distinguished visitor. In an earlier address by its president Dean Martin, its early history and achievements were traced since its inception eight years ago. It has three purposes in view; the conservation of mental hygiene; the prevention of mental disorders; and the treatment of these when they arise. It involves the co-operation of medical men, nurses and social workers, teachers health officers and universities. And its progress has been steady and recognized by government and public.

Among those present were nearly the whole of the Medical Faculty as well as many members of the junior and senior medical years of the university.
